Highline's Own Third Triumvirate

They are three men with three personalities which add up to a strong leadership. Together they form our own "Third Triumvirate," an administrative body that strives to guide the Pirate Ship in the best way possible.

Principal Mr. Glen Odman gives to the leadership combination great inspiration, wisdom, and restraint. Although not all students accept these qualities gracefully, they are long-term character builders.

Vice-principal Mr. Ken Teller brings to the group enthusiasm, understanding, and support for youthful undertakings. He is the Green Weenies' best friend.

Activity coordinator Mr. Paul Wells adds the final element of organization. By scheduling student-led activities, he helps increase student participation and interest.

Counselors Lend a Helping Hand

Is a counselor's life dependent upon patience? It must be—how else could they listen to a daily barrage of complaints, track down absent students, organize activities, and still reply "Patience" when demands are made?

As the responsibility increases due to advances in the curriculum, the efficiency of our counselor's work never decreases. They are still willing to listen and evaluate individual problems, help map further educational courses, and just be around when they are needed. This attitude of friendliness shown between counselor and student may be the factor that maintains an open channel of communication.

Revolution Ends Peacefully

Revolution swept the English department in '69. Students selecting their own courses for the new curriculum made up the non-violent change. They registered according to their needs for their Monday and Tuesday classes, which offered language, reading, and enrichment courses. On Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday they were placed according to their choice in various literature classes.

A potpourri of the courses offered included a course in propaganda, which made use of the television tape recorder; also classes in the History of Film-making; Radio and Television Announcing; Satire and Humor, which included a study of Bill Cosby; and a course in Search for Identity.

This program, headed by Mrs. Melba McConnaughey, added interest and vitality to the school schedule.

Students Take to Computer Game

All systems are "go" for the newly developed computer programming and related mathematic routines. This year a noticeable increase in student interest led to larger classes in Math Analysis, Calculus, and Introduction to Computers. The assistance of computers, slide rules, and square root tables helped show students how easily numerical "puzzles" can be calculated and solved. The simplification and clarity in teaching methods helped make this subject intelligible. With an emphasis on today's practical application, the students are becoming more aware of the role mathematical technology plays in our advanced world.

Science Reveals Nature's Secrets

Experimentation and observation were enhanced by a variety of course changes and new facilities. New apparatus and equipment caused the fundamental format of investigation to be more efficiently carried out. The labs along with a competent teaching staff led to an urge for discovery and learning. The old basics — frog dissection in biology and rotten egg making in chemistry, are still a major part of the curriculum, but the emphasis in all classes, including biology, botany, chemistry, zoology, and physics, is to explore the unseen world of formulated knowledge around them.

A Business World Beckons

The click of typewriter keys, adding machines and ditto machines is the prevalent sound of the second floor east end classrooms. The business world offers an opportunity of employment for many high school students and because of the extense of our department, Highline students will top the list for eligibility. In addition to courses involving machines, students can take classes including shorthand, bookkeeping, business law, and office occupations. These classes will prepare them for various secretarial duties.

To Communicate is to Understand

Francais, Espanol, Deutsch, Latinus, Russki — any way you say it, foreign languages are an important part of High-line. We are fortunate to have the extensive language laboratory and equipment for the use of beginning students in all five subjects. The laboratory is designed to accommodate the needs of all foreign language students, but as yet the program is directed toward beginning pronunciation guides.

Communication is a major factor in international relationships, and the knowledge of another's language is a big step in the direction to link the chain of thoughts by mutual comprehension.

Mind and Body Work as One

A healthy mind stems from a healthy, physically fit body. Strength, coordination, and competition helped both boys and girls strive for the full potential of their physical abilities. Today girls are participating in activities such as track and field hockey which were once thought for "boys only." Boys are competing for physical standings and the results are shown in the color of the shorts each individual wears.

Helping to make the high school student mentally fit are Highline's health classes. The curriculum is geared to student interest with the areas of concentration being mental health, the effects of stimulants and depressants, and family life. The aim of the program is to bring current information to students so they can make intelligent decisions when they are faced with health problems.

Success on the Home Front

The key to successful living begins in the home. This was the emphasis in the home-economics department. New to the curriculum this year were boys' home-ec which stressed the ways of living in a bachelor's world and also the co-educational class of family relations. These courses added variety to the already efficient program which included a number of classes in clothing construction and food preparation. Tailoring and specialty foods were two of the most popular classes.

Industrial Arts students not only learned how to create but, in doing so, produced some very useful articles. Steering wheels, water skis, and even boats were constructed by students this year. A better understanding of gas engines, by both boys and girls was obtained with the help of Mr. Kinville, who taught auto shop.

Expression in a New Dimension

Change is the creator of the artist. It came in the form of new art and craft studies situated in the 500 building. The new location, as well as team teaching, helped create an atmosphere stimulating to the artist.

Acting becomes more than physical pretending for the drama students under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Sletner. By becoming another character, an individual gets a wider perspective of himself and the world around him.

Moods expressed through voices and instruments resounded throughout Highline's music department. This form of communication helped bring variation and enjoyment into the students' world.

Future Foreseen in Past

It's often been said that history repeats itself, but the methods of teaching and the material taught can be far from boring, as was shown by the history department. A successful year came about as the result of new approaches in teaching. These included more student participation and less lecturing on the teacher's part. Open discussions in United States History classes and the use of student prepared bulletin boards for World History classes were important elements in the attempt to bridge the world of yesterday to the world of today. Goals in Contemporary Problems were to try to develop a better understanding of the social problems that beset the world's people and attempt to propose a workable solution for each problem.

Resource Center Sparks Interest

Books look more inviting and the thought of reading becomes less torturous when surrounded by the cheery atmosphere of Highline's newly completed resource center. Since its long-awaited opening, the momentum has gathered, but students have yet to realize its full potential. Highline students have, however, set "record mileage" on the microfilm machines and the use of carrels for independent study have been outstanding. Trained librarians are always willing to aid students with research problems or just help them get acquainted with our new facility.

Keeping records, files, and typing bulletins — the fundamentals of running a school — were done efficiently by our competent office staff. These vital links are infinitely valuable and indispensable yet are sometimes taken for granted. The office seemed to be where students brought questions and where responsive people were always ready to reply to these inquiries.

Mini-Government by the Big Four

The firm gavel of student leadership was held by Rob Willis, ASB president, as he presided over Board of Control. The propositions of a student lounge, the continuation of Inter-High student exchanges giving students the opportunity to see how other schools and classes are run, the election of a new Senior class secretary, and the possible revision of the school constitution all found their way onto Board of Control's agenda. The proficient use of a microphone was shown by Eunice Brow, vice president, as she led Representative Assembly. The knowledge of a pen helped Sue Strayer, secretary, in taking accurate minutes. Controlling Highline's piggy-bank with amazing ingenuity was Mike Lovre, treasurer. Many of their aims to create more student participation in school activities were fulfilled by the overwhelming amount of student interest and spirit that was shown during this past year.

The Voice of the People

An emphatic attempt to open the lines of communication between the students and their elected leaders was an important goal of the Board of Control and Representative Assembly this past year. Under the direction of Eunice Brow, vice-president, room representatives discussed the Board of Control's proposed student lounge, circulated the information throughout their third period classrooms, and after much revision the issue of building a "senior lounge" was passed. Heated discussion, involving the parking lot situation (especially those notorious speed bumps), and pants versus dresses for girls, dominated early meetings of Representative Assembly.

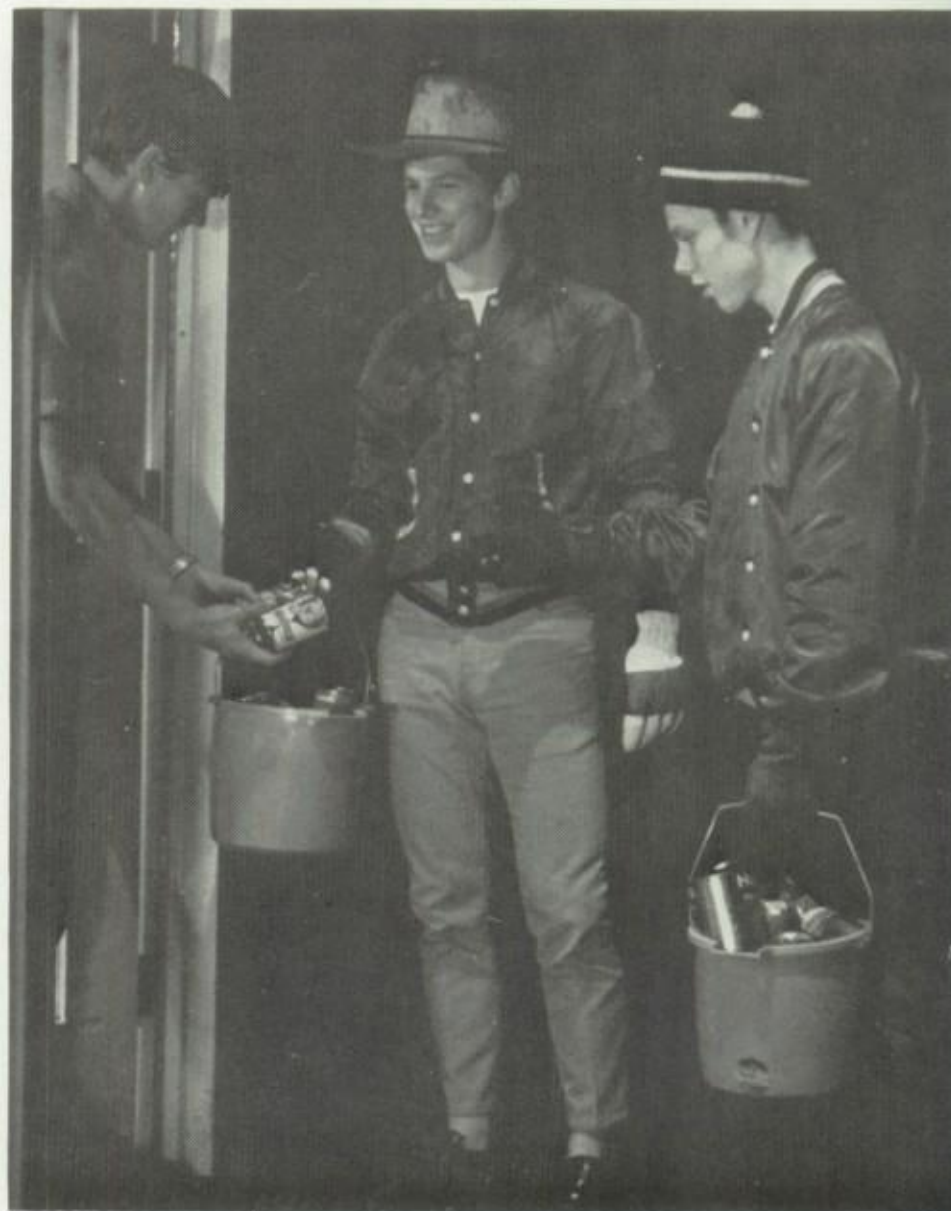

Interim Council, composed of Sue Strayer, ASB secretary, and business managers, Denise Crow and Jo Anne Bakken, were responsible for writing the agendas for both Board of Control and Representative Assembly.

Slave Sale Stimulates Boys' Club Conquests

Despite rumors that the Boys' Club would never last another year, the 1969-70 Club succeeded in carrying out traditions of old in addition to adding a few new activities of their own. Starting the year was the first annual Slave Sale, an interesting idea contributed by rookie advisor Harry Oldenburger. The sale was closely followed by an unprecedented fifth straight win in the Canned Food Drive. The R. A. Rowland administration then engineered the dance of the year. Despite constant bumbling by officers Howard Rider, Brian Volkert and Steve Tran, Bobby managed to keep the Club on an even keel through Friendship Week and into the second annual BCRA Road Rally which climaxed another Boys' year.

Honors Bestowed On Highline Students

Each month Boys' and Girls' Club honors three individuals from its student body. The Girls' Club has the responsibility of electing an outstanding girl who is chosen for her activities around Highline and upon her is bestowed Girl of the Month. The Boys' Club, likewise, has the duty of electing a Man of the Month as well as an Athlete of the Month. The election of these individuals only takes place after the careful scrutinization of each candidate. The individuals are nominated for their participation in school activities. Seniors are the only people capable of receiving the Boys' Club Man of the Month and Athlete of the Month, but the Girls' Club bestows the honor on one junior and one sophomore. This is the students' way of honoring these individuals and to give them the recognition which they deserve.

Mother-Daughter Tea Climaxes Active Year

Victory in the Canned Food Drive (although still unacknowledged by the defeated boys) ranks high in the accomplishments of this year's Girls' Club. Cabinet committee chairmen were responsible for a successful Friendship Tea, a mutually enjoyed Father-Daughter Banquet and a Mother-Daughter Tea to be remembered by all those who attended. Age of Aquarius was the Girls' Club sponsored Tolo. Couples danced within the realm of midnight blue and silver decorations to the music of the Dick Henderson Trio. Outside the school, the Girls' Club helped the March of Dimes campaign and worked in a CARE booth at Southcenter.

Highline Hails High Barbaree

With a pirate invasion from high and low, Highline's 1969 Homecoming began with a glimpse of High Barbaree. The momentum of spirit increased during the show, on into the reception, and throughout the game, as spectators witnessed the 27-0 victory over the Evergreen Wolverines. The game was enhanced by halftime activities emceed by Sandy McDade which included the marching band and presentation of Queen Candy Hage and her court: Francine Occhino and Chris Peters, senior princesses; Beth Steele, junior princess; Nancy Armstrong, sophomore princess; and Patty Yellam, graduate princess, class of 1965. Queen Candy ruled as "Queen of the Seas" in a true pirate atmosphere of purple and gold Saturday night while the Dick Henderson Trio provided music.

Drama Department Goes For Two

Highline's Drama department broke tradition this year by dropping the old fall play format and presenting both a play and a musical for their autumn production.

Mrs. Virginia Sletner guided the cast of 29 to a comedic performance of Kaufman and Sergal's UP THE DOWN STAIRCASE. The audience followed Karen Binz's adventures as an inexperienced teacher in a Chicago high school through scenes which closely resembled happenings at Highline.

Two cadet teachers from Central Washington State College, Miss Susan Davis and Miss Pamela Cole, took on the direction of the nine-member cast of THE FANTASTICKS. Miss Cole supervised the dramatic portion of the play, while Miss Davis handled the musical portion. The result was an appealing musical fantasy-comedy.

KC Pirates Control Halls

Standing their posts, the tireless KC's keep watchful eyes on one way halls ever alert to the presence of violators. The KC's job is a thankless one. He must stand and patrol the halls day in and day out and though the KC lot is not a happy one, the men who compose the KC's this year were dedicated to their cause. Under the devoted leadership of skipper, Howard Rider, the KC's did an outstanding job of keeping the students moving. With Ed Marchbank serving as the advisor, the KC's showed a consistent enforcement which has not been seen for quite some time.

Big H Helps Out In School Activities

Big H is a group composed of Highline lettermen who each year instigate new activities around the school. This year, with Jim Schufreider as president, they held a candy sale as well as the traditional pickle sale, both of which were great successes. The Big H members distributed free schedules of the basketball games and wrestling matches to students. Other than the candy and pickle sales, the club also sponsored a faculty game between Kennedy High School and Highline; despite a valiant fight by the Highline faculty squad, they were defeated in a close game. Although the pickle and candy sales and the Kennedy basketball game were identified as being the activities of the year, Highline Big H stood for more than that; they were a group of athletes who, throughout the year, maintained the high standard of a Highline letterman not only in school but also in non-school actions.

Athletic Girls Work for Highline, Too

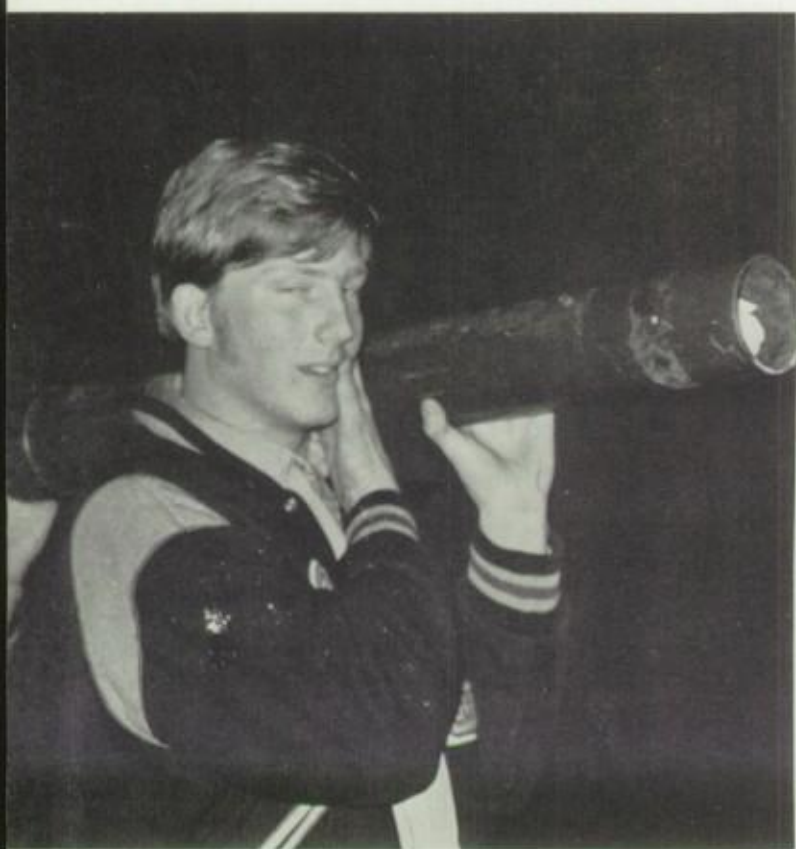

An equal opportunity for girls to letter is given by Highline in the form of the HGLC, Highline Girls Letter Club. In a program of intramural sports the girls are offered numerous activities, from tennis to field hockey. There are three seasons of sports which run from fall to spring. This year's president was senior Denise Pitman with the able assistance of Sharon Safka as vice president and Beth Bender as secretary-treasurer. The girls not only participated in sports but helped to send an underprivileged child to Camp Waskowitz. HGLC's advisor, Miss Joanne Slosser, stated that she had plans for instigating a more total program of intramural sports and activities at Highline in the following year.

The Weenies Are Hard To Beat!

Always there instilling school spirit and yelling both with and at the cheerleaders, the Green Weenies were straight shooters who stood for frivolity, merriment, gaiety and above all, spirit. The Green Weenies stimulated a feeling of sturdy, steadfast unity, which both shocked and surprised the crowds. The group first went to work at the football games. They came with a type of spirit that intoxicated the crowds, and transformed them from silent bench-warmers to students drunk with the taste of pirate victories. The Weenies were the boys' answer to Pep Club and symbolized the ideal of the "Greener Weener." After the football field, they moved to the basketball court and wrestling mat, bringing with them ripples of spirit and school unity.

Pep Club Instills Highline Spirit

Lung power, enthusiasm, and for some, the ability to pull themselves out of bed at 4:30 a.m., are a few of the prerequisites of Pep Club. An organization open to all Highline girls, Pep Club strives to maintain spirit throughout a game, throughout a season and throughout the year. This involves not only attendance at games and meets, but also painting signs after school, and delivering those signs to the players' houses before daybreak.

Due to the efforts of President Sharon Kulp and several of her girls, 1969 Homecoming, High Barbaree, was a true Pirate success.

Full of the spirit: Hard working Pep Club members, right, paint signs for team members. Below, one hundred and fifteen loyal girls comprised the 1969-70 Pep Club.

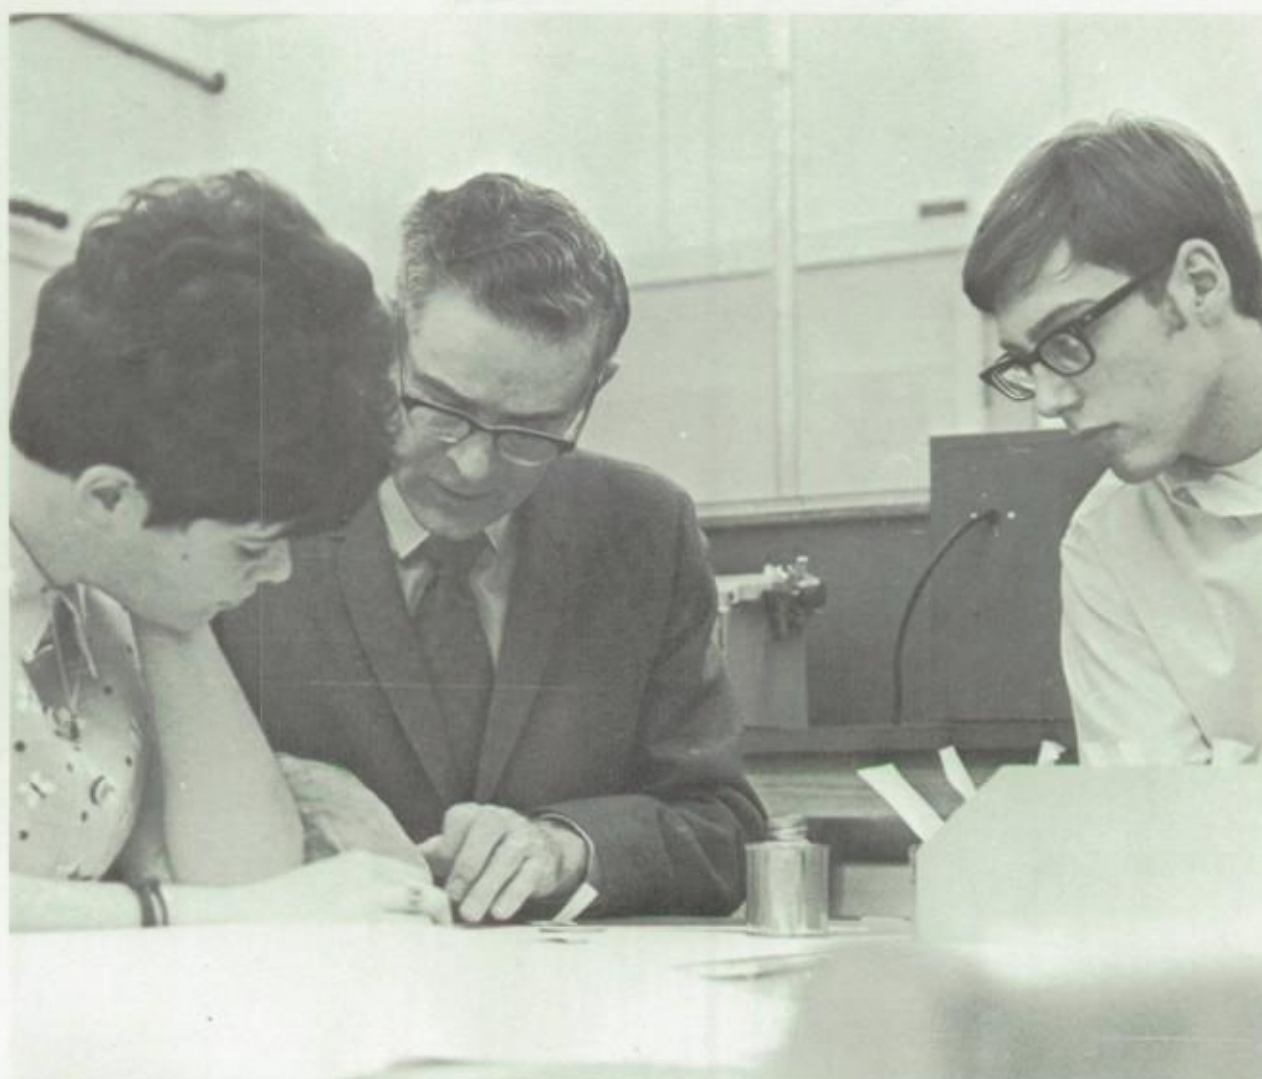

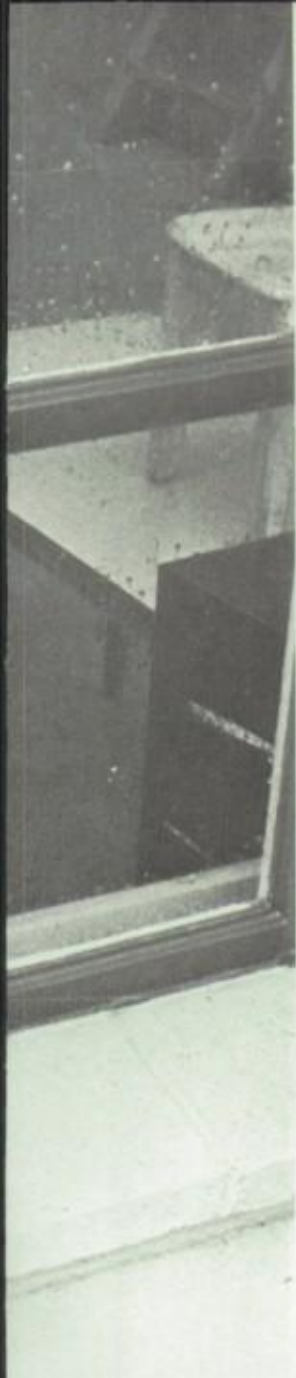

Inexperienced Staff Overcomes Obstacles

A staff full of inexperienced help met advisor Pat Sullivan upon her return from summer vacation, but this was not the only hurdle the 1970 PIRATES LOG staff faced. Besides distributing last years' book, the transition had to be made from fall to spring deadlines for this year. This meant hours of extra work in the chilly shop buildings on weekends and over vacations to make sure our seniors would have a book to sign.

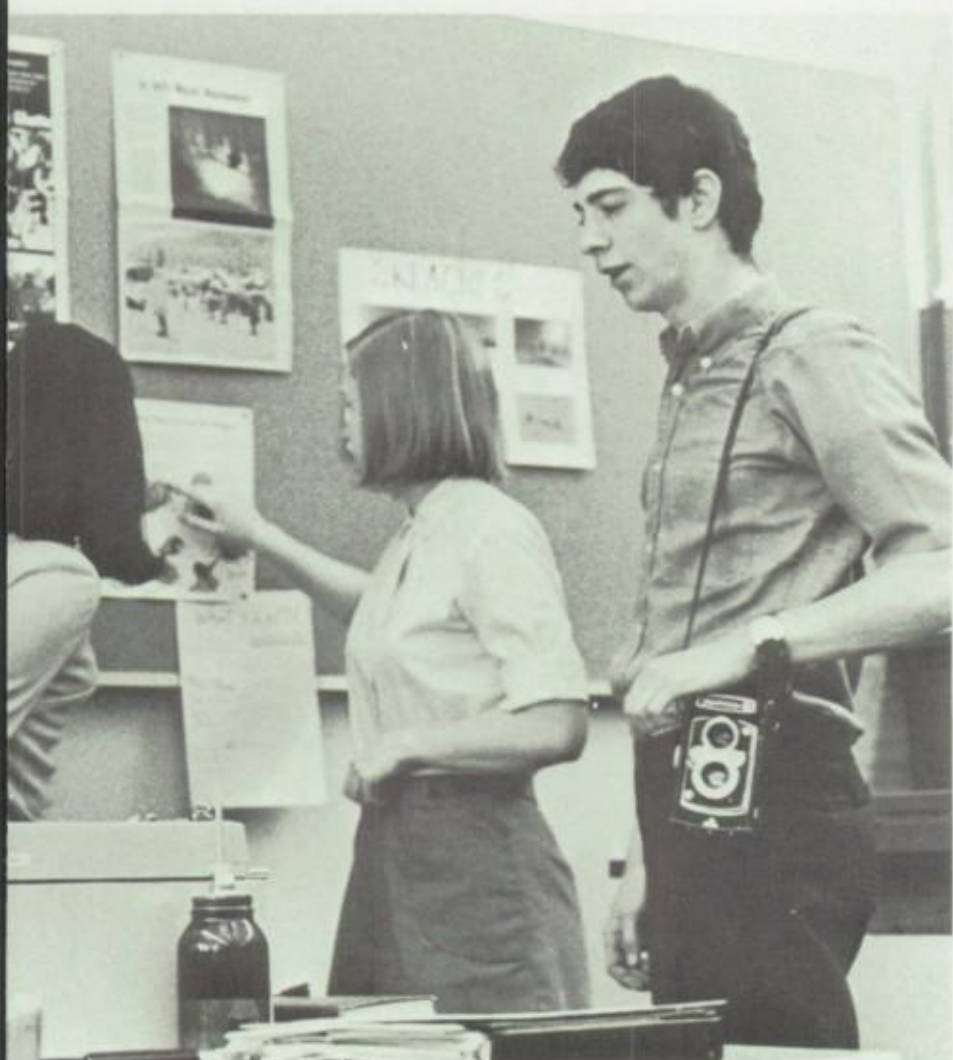

Another deadline missed points out editor Ernie Selander, right, to Chris Peters and Lucy Carlson. Newstaff Explores Motion Picture Media

Working hard to maintain a high quality newspaper, the staff of the HIGHLINES was always on the job. Headed by editor Sandy McDade and advisor Pat Sullivan, the HIGHLINES continued to earn the highest ratings. This year the news staff offered not only new papers but the REALNEWS NEWSREEL, a bi-monthly production which introduced the Highline student body to the "super-film". The newsreel was produced by Pat Sullivan and edited and directed by Stephen Ernest Tran and the Seafish production crew. As the HIGHLINES extended itself into new media, it did not attempt to influence judgment, but rather to excite the minds of its readers to form their own opinions.

Lemmon's Tree Very Pretty

As everything in our world seems to change around us, we can always be assured of the fact that Camp Waskowitz still remains much the same as when we left it in the sixth grade. Mr. Harry Lemmon is there to share his knowledge and love of nature. K.P. duty still exists and night hikes are as scary as ever. We, as high school students, have the opportunity to re-enter this warm world of Waskowitz as counselors, to share in the enthusiasm of the sixth grader and to work along with the teachers, senior counselors, the staff, and Mr. Wepler in impressing the camper with the importance of conservation.

This is school? It's too much fun for that. At top left, counselor Miss Norma (Schnars) shows her campers how to slice potatoes for their Thursday afternoon cookout. DECA Progresses Into the Seventies

Activity could be the slogan for Highline's two DECA Clubs, whose presidents were Bruce Wiley and Bonnie Rogers. The display windows, the reader board, milk and ice cream booth and the Student Store were all part of the action of this group. Thanksgiving and Christmas were made happier by the giving of food, toys and clothing to six different needy families. An annual dance this year featured the Gas Company.

On the job training, class participation in the field of business practices and experience coping with human relations, were combined to form the DECA class. Through acquired experience, students hope to become young business men and women of the future. DECA strives to prepare our generation for the best of the world of tomorrow.

Service-Minded Help School and Community

Giving their time and needed assistance to the handicapped of our community is the prime interest of Spades. As a Kiwanis sponsored service project, Cathy Mrazek, president, and the Spades work with Woodside School, the Cerebral Palsy Center, and the Highline Headstart project.

By working as Candy Strippers at Burien General Hospital, members of Future Nurses of America can both offer needed assistance and encourage their own future professions. To further their community service program, the girls, under the direction of Sharon Morse, chose to make Christmas stockings for soldiers in Viet Nam, sponsor a girl at Buckley School, and bake cookies for the elderly.

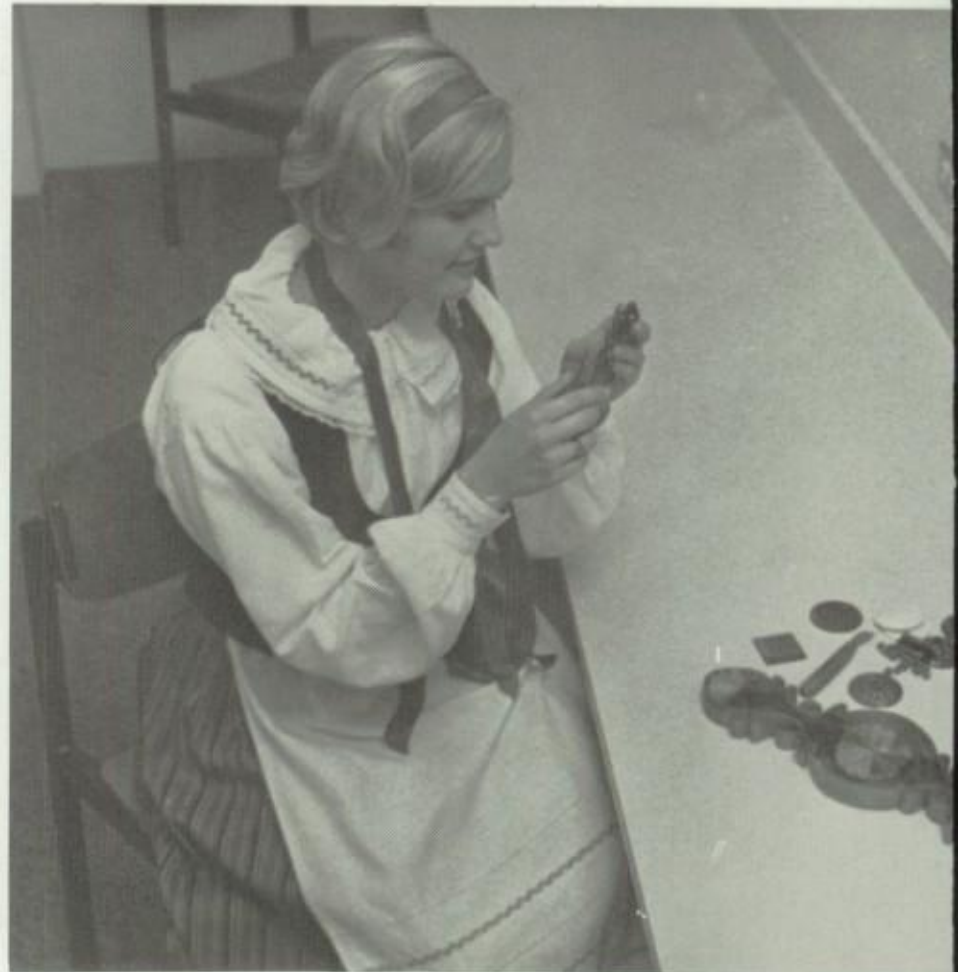

Headed by Helen Eisaman, Ushers aid the school by ushering at games, assemblies, plays and concerts. An important function of the girls is ushering at Commencement exercises in the Spring.

Foreign Students Enjoy Highline Life

Welcoming the visiting foreign students to our school and remembering those of us studying in other countries is the Foreign Exchange Club's function. In addition to being a good will ambassador to our students, the Club organizes an annual Foreign Exchange Day, including an assembly, banquet and dance, involving foreign students from all over the State.

Pirate's Pen Explores the Inner Mind of Man

The inner mind of man, as it is expressed through thoughts, ideas, and feelings, manifest themselves and make their presents known in the Pirates' Pen. Under the direction of Bill Armstrong and editor Susan Hunt, the "Pen" gave students from Highline a chance to have their works appear in print. The Pirates' Pen is an annual literary publication which is put out and edited by Highline students. At the end of each year the Pirates' Pen goes on sale; this marks the end of a full year of hard work for the devoted staff. The "Pen" is a publication of distinct individuality and honest self-expression on the part of Highline writers and poets.

Educated in the Art of Arguing

"Resolved: That Congress should prohibit United States unilateral military intervention in foreign countries." This was the topic for this year's debaters at Highline and at all other high schools in the country. Seniors Scott Jensen and Becky Foote, two three-year debaters, performed not only at the high schools of the North Puget Sound League but also at Washington State, Seattle Pacific College and the University of Washington. Other than the two mentioned above, there were sixteen other students from Advisor Harry Oldenberger's sixth period class, all of whom were members in the National Forensic League. The Pirate debaters did well at the debates they attended and brought home many awards.

Assistants Aid Fellow Students

"To help the 'Pirate Ship' sail smoother," this was the main concern of the boys and girls who made up the library and office assistants. Working hard, both during and after school hours, these students ran errands, filed cards, answered phones, acted as receptionists, checked out and checked in books. Helpful Pirates served the students, faculty, and the public, in the library as well as in the offices. Devoted to the belief that a school can not function without help from the student body, these individuals gave up their own time to work to improve Highline.

Honor Societies Select Members

Formed to allow the scholastic activities and achievements of students to be displayed, the National Honor Society was created. In accordance with the National Honor Societies standards, students were picked for the outstanding actions in service, scholarship, leadership, and character. The Highline's chapter of the society demanded a 3.2 grade point average or higher from each of its members, as well as superior actions in the above mentioned categories. This year's president was senior Darla Hall, and advisor Mr. Kenneth Myers, both worked hard to maintain the high standards of the society.

The Quill and Scroll International Honor Society for Journalists was first chartered at Highline in 1936 and has been revived in recent years to honor top scholar-journalists of school publications. New members will be presented at the District Journalism Banquet in May.

Musical Variety Sports A Band New Sound

The 1969-70 Highline bands had a little of something for everyone. They played all types of music, from Tchaikowsky to Stan Kenton, in locations varying from Southcenter to Canada. Playing at pep assemblies and games, the pep band boosted school spirit, while the marching band put on an entertaining half-time show in the Homecoming game. Due to the overwhelming turnout of musicians, Stage Band was divided into two groups: light-light and not-so-light. Symphonic Band's original performances demonstrated the showmanship and pride of the musicians. Judging by the reactions of the audiences, the bands were more popular than ever.

Highline Choirs Sing Songs for the Seventies

Their voices sang out as they represented Highline. A Capella Choir, Girls Glee, and Mixed Chorus treated audiences once again this year to the finest in vocal entertainment. Under the skilled direction of Mr. William Moeller, the music department entertained the student body at numerous events throughout the year. Besides the school assemblies, they also participated in many community programs.

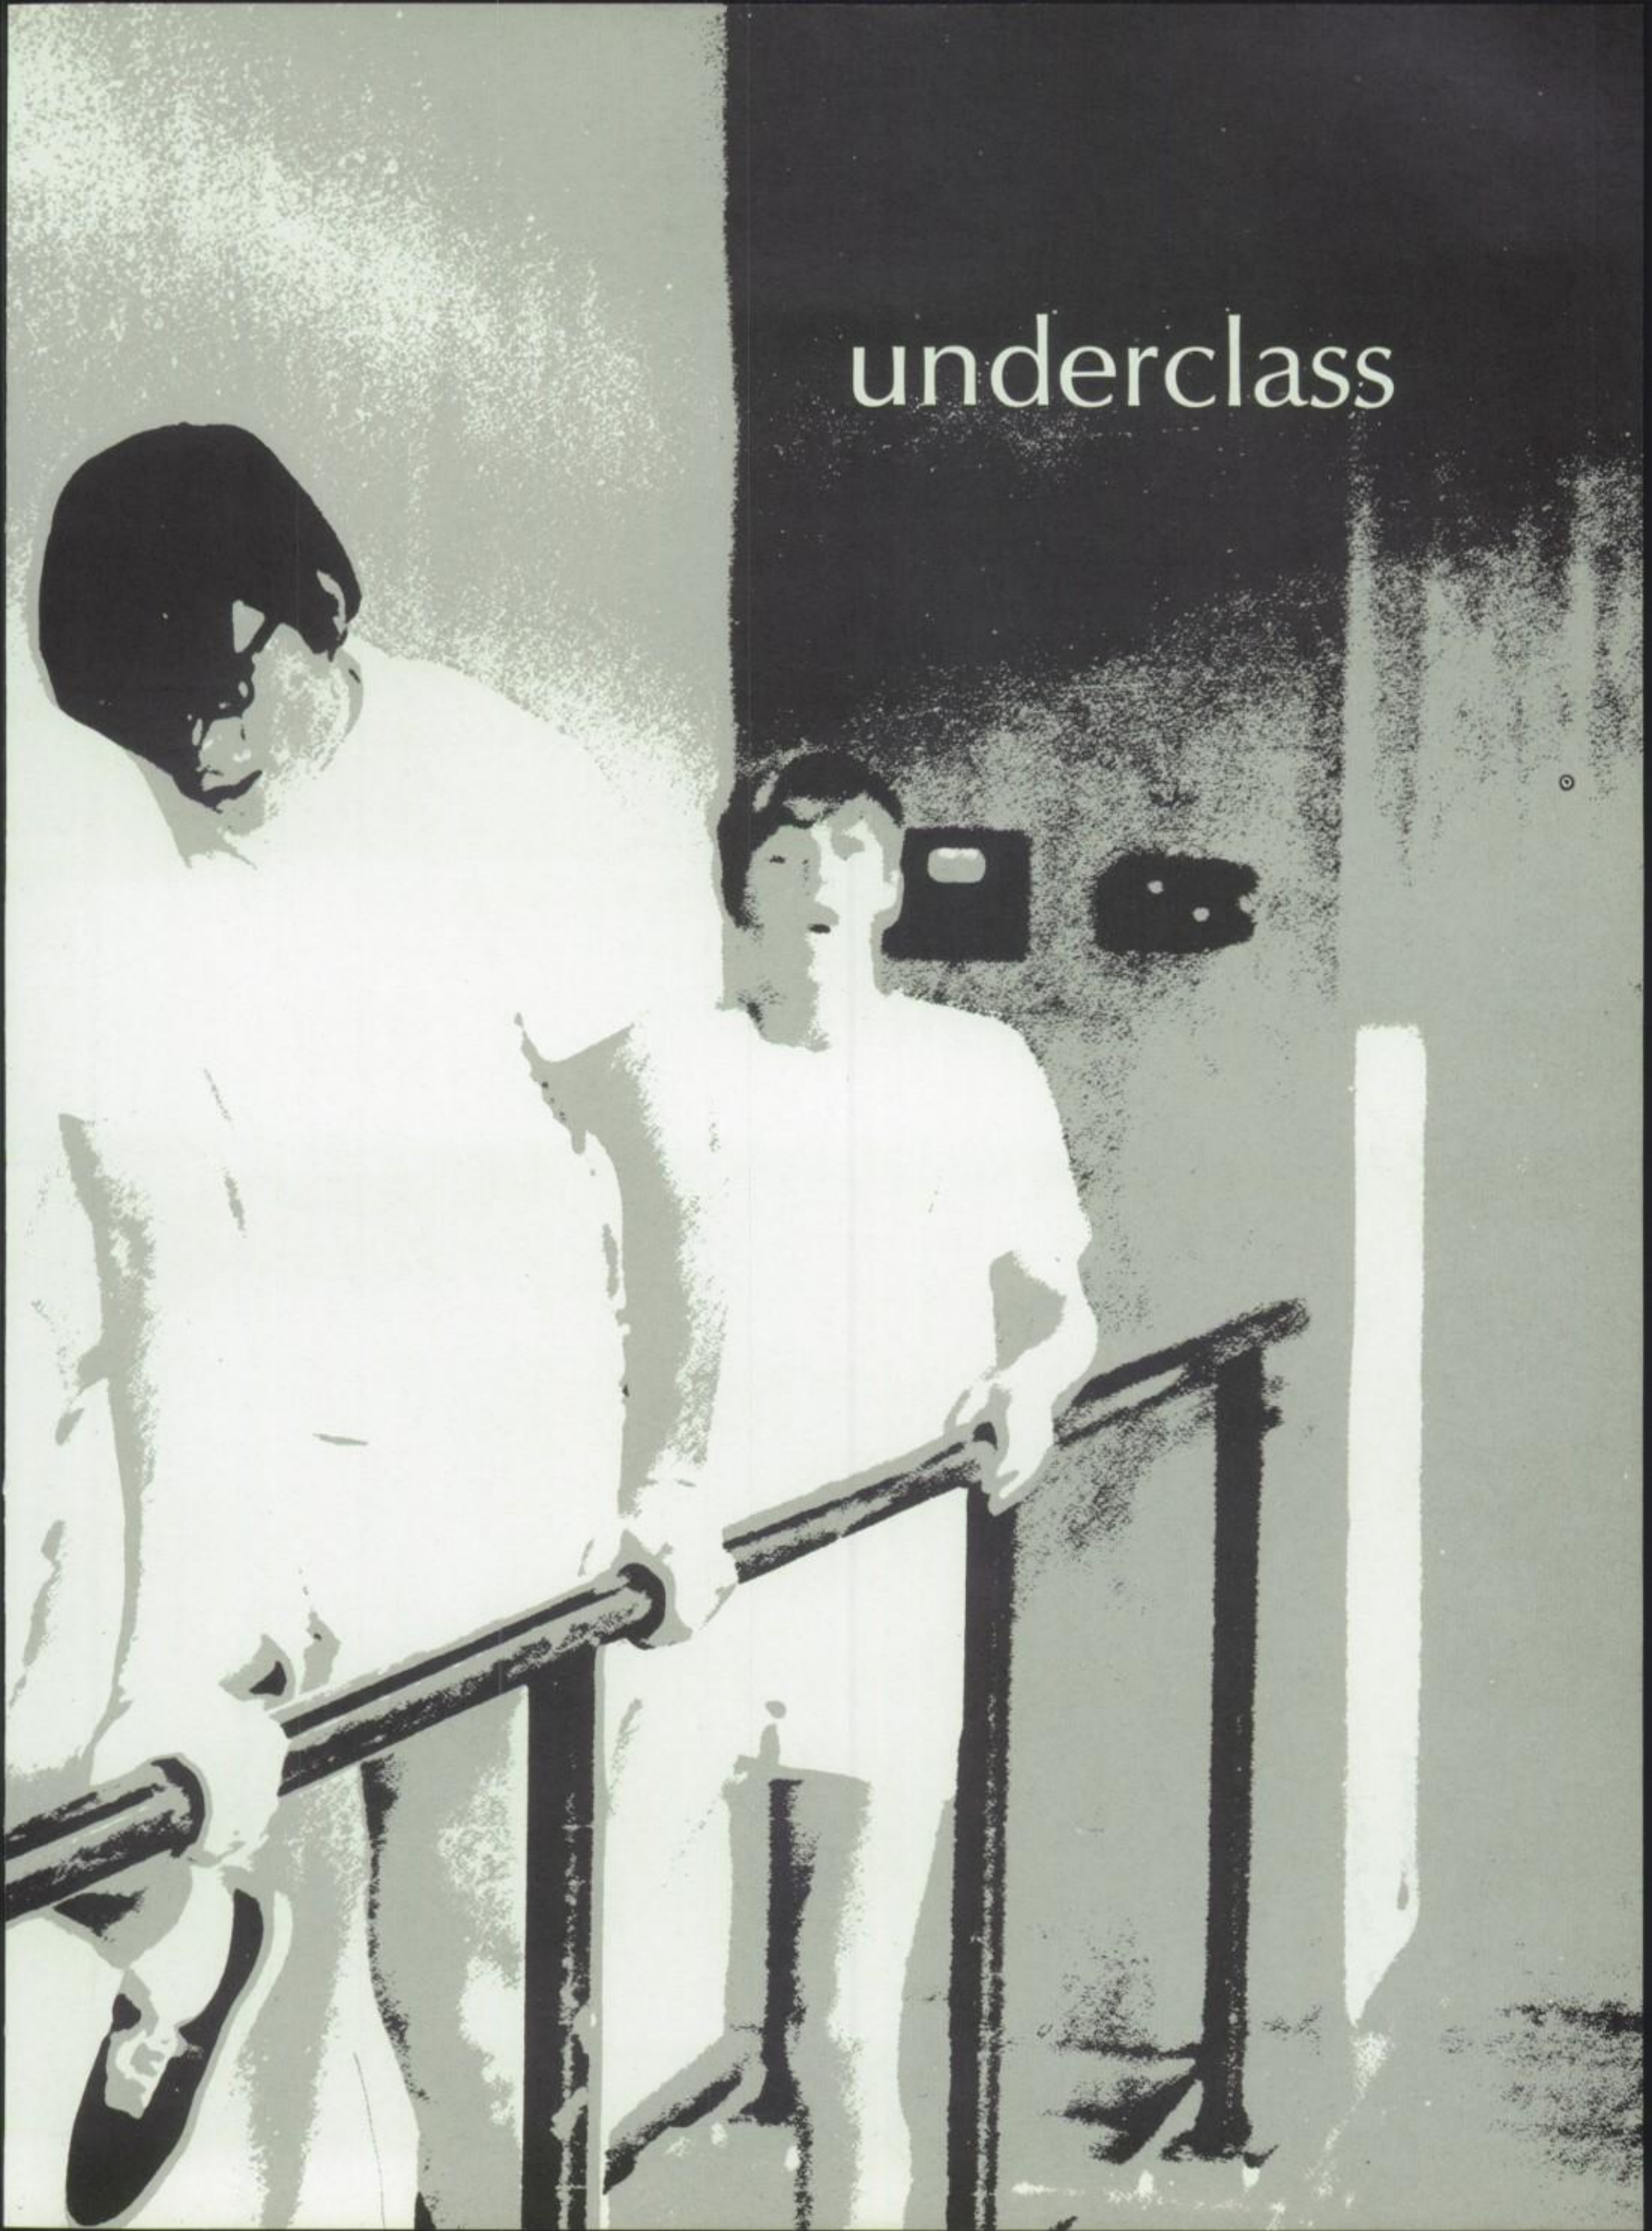

Striving to improve their tonal quality, the choir practiced many hard and long hours before attaining a satisfactory degree of perfection. Mr. Moeller has once again produced an outstanding contribution to the music department. He is looking forward to continuing success next year.

Jan,

Hope so! Maybe S.S. too?

The sophomore is a lowly creature, to be sure, but without him there would be no Juniors and Seniors. The sophomore is the seed from which will grow the men and women who will in the future populate the earth. Sophomores are thought of as rather slow and backward folk, at least this is the general opinion expressed by the upperclassmen. They say this, but they forget that they were once sophomores themselves. This year the class of '72 represented newness, willingness to learn, and determination to find out why things are as they are.

Juniors Have Caught Sight of the Top

Juniors are just that! They may not be quite as bad as sophomores, but at least they try. The Junior year is one of improvement, advancement, and involvement. From the misguided mess that was once the sophomore year, the Juniors begin to make their presence felt. They look back on their past year with disdain, and they look to the future with an eagerness of unawareness. The Juniors have not realized that the past year was the most carefree. They have gone the rigors of sophomore life and are now facing the unknown perils of the Senior year. The class of '71 will continue to learn and work towards graduation with eagerness to face the outside world.

Yell Staff Cheers Pirate Squads On

Throughout the year the purple and gold of Highline was proudly worn by seven loyal girls. They worked hard throughout the year to build the spirit and to strengthen the unity at Highline. The degree of skill with which they worked was present in all their school activities. During the summer they showed their worth by bringing back seven ribbons from the Cheerleader Conference. As the year progressed, they put on pep assemblies and participated in the Boys' Clubs slave sale as well as their regular duties at the games. In truth, this year's cheerleaders were girls we could be proud of, and admire.

Offensive Football Returns to Highline

The pride of Highline this year had to be the football team. The squad showed its spirit and determination each time it came out on the field, and instilled a sense of unity among the students that not has been felt around Highline for a long time. Under the guidelines of Head Coach Dick Rew, the Pirates brought back offensive football. This was apparent in the way they defeated Thomas Jefferson, the S.P.S.L. champs, 26 to 0, and Renton, the N.P.S.L. champs, 21 to 0. The team ended up fourth in the N.P.S.L. with a season record of 6 wins and 3 losses, but the statistics show that Highline deserved a higher spot. For example they were number one in team scoring and team offense. Halfback senior, Ken Read, who was named Most Valuable Player, came out with some impressive statistics as he was first in league rushing and scoring in total offense. The Co-Captains for the team this year, Seniors Ken Read and Mark Johnson, were also named to the All-state squad. Mr. Hustle Award went to junior George Mattmiller, senior Bill Hogan received Most Improved and senior Bob Rowland earned the Inspirational award.

Hi

Mighty Pirates Fourth in League

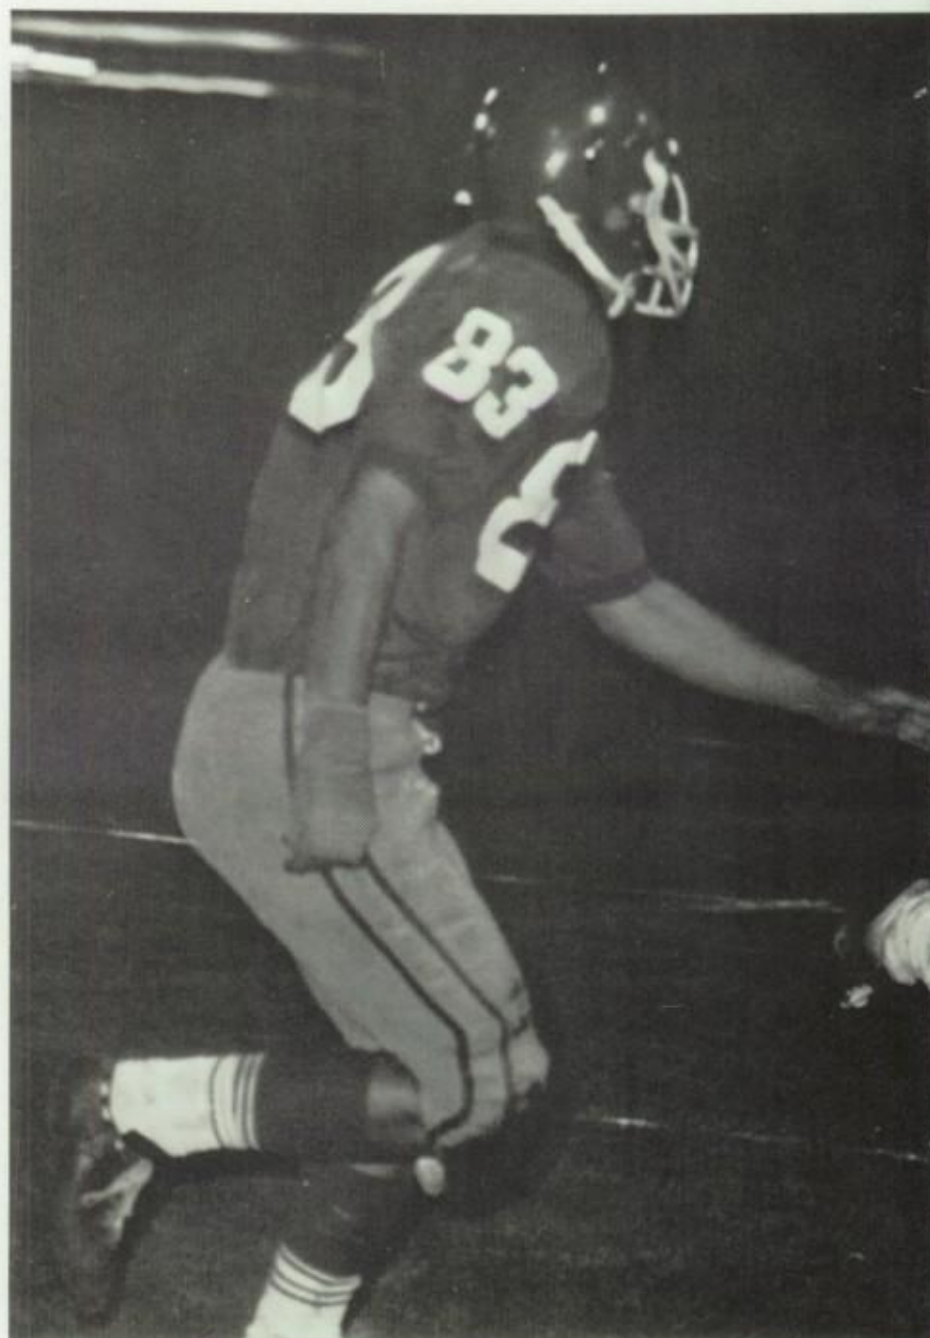

THOMAS JEFFERSON: The Pirates met Thomas Jefferson for its first game of the '69 season. In the non-league game the Raiders fell under the Highline super-team. Jefferson was spindled 26 to 0.

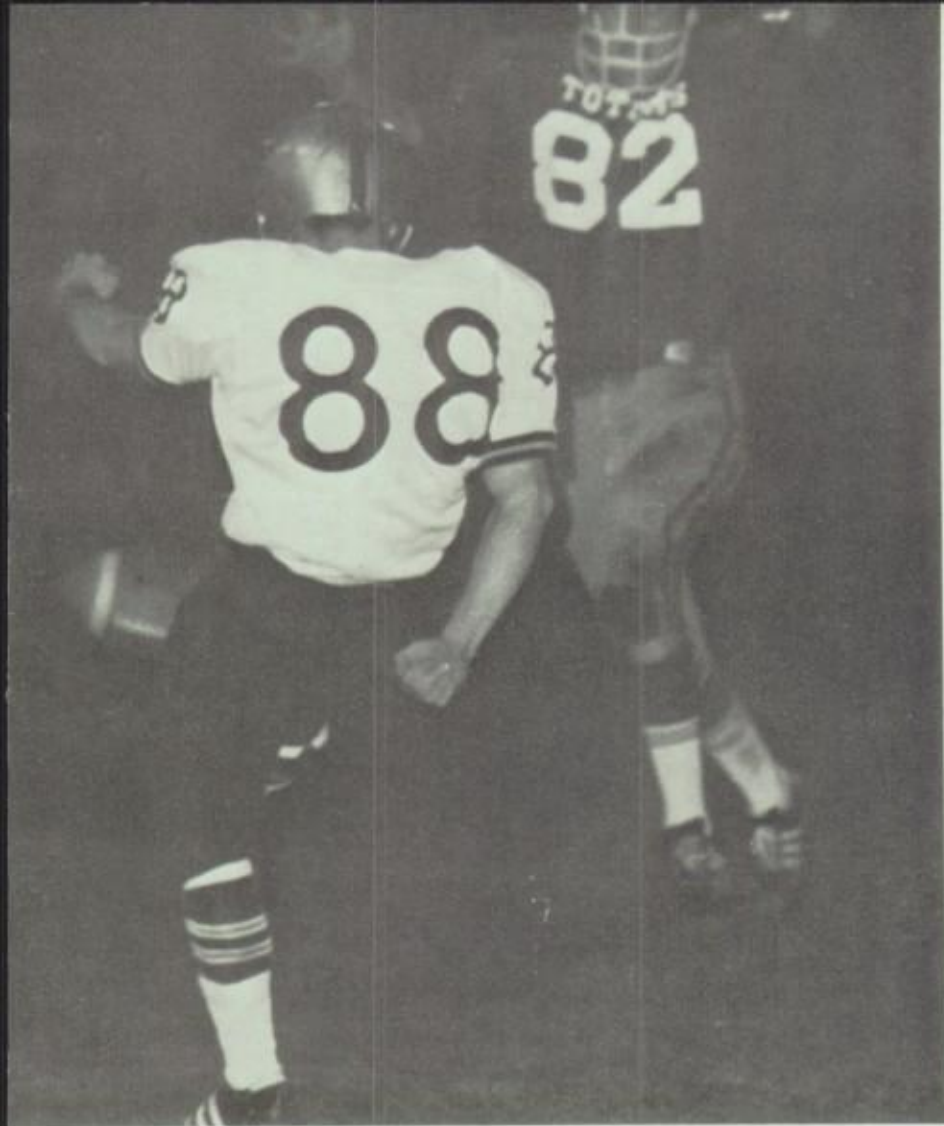

KENTRIDGE: At the first league game, the Highline Pirates faced the Kentridge Chargers and fought in a close game to a final score of 27 to 26. This was the first win in league play.

RENTON: The Indians were washed up on the beach, by the wake of the Pirate ship. Highline was at its best and had no trouble defeating Renton 21 to 0.

MT. RAINIER: The Rams were the first team to defeat the Pirates. Mt. Rainier sneaked by the Highline Gridmen 14 to 13 in the only day game of the season.

EVERGREEN: The Wolverines were sent to the bottom where they remain till the end of the season. The Pirates defeated them in a merciful win of 26 to 0 at the Homecoming Game.

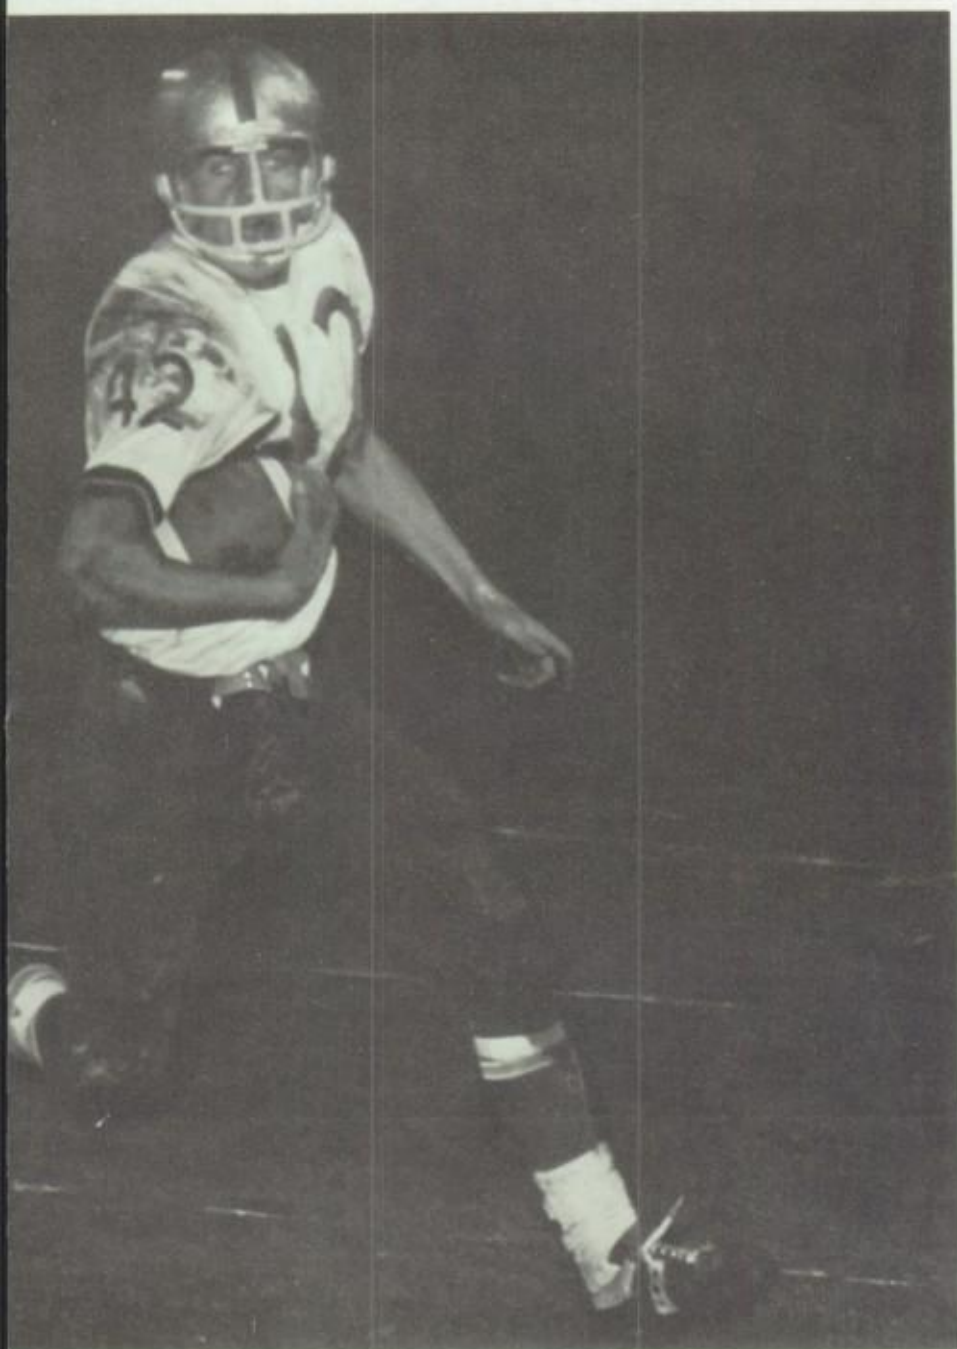

North and South PSL Champs Fall

KENT-MERIDIAN: It was the second loss of the season for Highline when they went up against the Kent-Meridian Royals. The Pirates failed to score and were beaten 21 to 0 at the away game.

HAZEN: In a high-scoring game Highline defeated the Hazen Raisens 35 to 26. This marked the fifth win of the season for the mighty Pirates.

TYEE: At the Totem-Pirate game, Tyee sneaked by Highline with a final score of 19 to 18. It gave the Pirates their third loss of the season.

GLACIER: The Pirates were out in full strength and had little or no trouble overcoming the Glacier Grizzlies. In the final game of the season, the Highline Sod Squad walked all over Glacier 44 to 0.

Sod-Squad Enjoys First Spot

Although the varsity team only placed fourth, the sophomore team was first in the League. The squad ended its season with a six to one win-loss record. The team was composed of some of the most talented group of men that Highline has seen in some years. Coach Dominic Bort said that by the time they are seniors they should be able to give any team in the league all they can handle. The key win of the season was over Kent-Meridian, who was downed eight to six by the Sophomore Sod-Squad. The only stumbling block was the Mt. Rainier game where the Pirates were defeated 0 to 12.

Divot Makers Shoot Birdies

The Highline Swingers ended the season with a four and four record. Everyone got into the act, as four sophomores, three juniors and three seniors, one of which was a female, participated. The girl, Carole Clark, first golf letter "girl" at Highline, provided the inspiration, while John Stampalia, junior, led the team in scoring. John received the Team Captain Award as the number one golfer. Number two was Uli Chi, number three, Rick Estep, number four, Neil Hanson and the number five position was held between Ron Grant, Gayle Bailey and Dave Stewart. All ten members received letters.

Harriers Stride to Second Place

Pirate harriers placed second in N.P.S.L. this year after suffering only one loss to Renton by a sixteen point margin. Highline's Junior Varsity also lost only to the Indians by a seven point deficit. According to Coach Sarver, the team's greatest opponent, Renton was our only obstacle in the way of the championship. The Indians went on to finish number one in the State. Rich Harper and Gary Reel, juniors, did a fine job in the State Meet, finishing sixteenth and fortieth place, respectively. Dan Dafoe, senior, was named 1969-1970 cross-country captain and Rich Harper, junior, earned the inspirational award.

Winning Swimmers Take Second Title

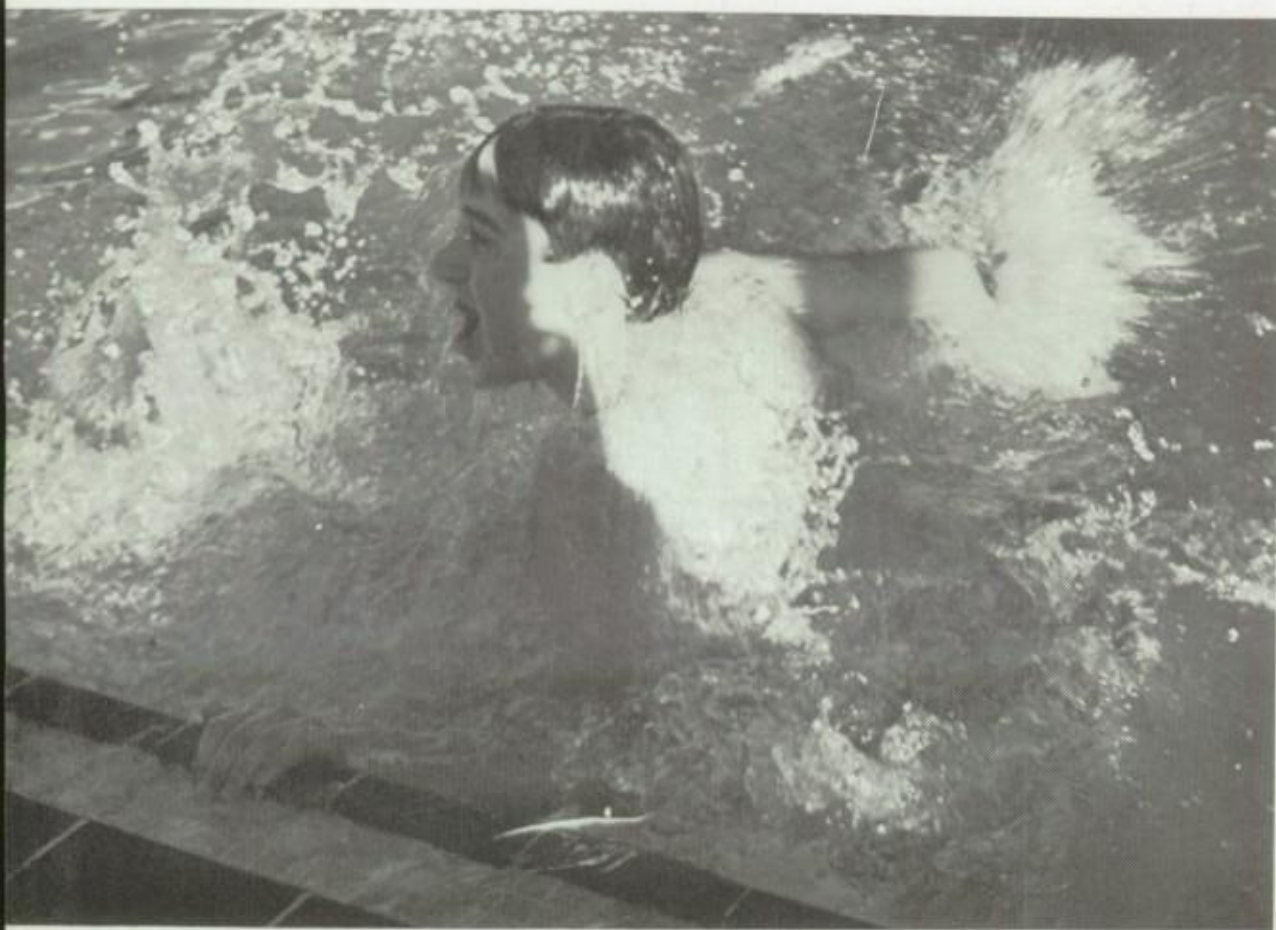

Pirate swimmers once again dominated District II while compiling a 9-2 dual meet record. Continuing in last year's record ways, the aquanauts rewrote eight all-time Highline High School records in addition to recapturing both the King-Pierce Relay and District Championships. The tankmen's only disappointment was a third place finish at State, close behind Olympia and far behind Wilson. These two teams were also their two dual meet losses. Leading the Pirates this year were Dave Castner and Scott Lautman, the Outstanding and Inspirational Swimmers, respectively. Tom Alderson was named Most Improved Swimmer for the second time in addition to winning the Big Country Award.

Pirate Netmen Reach New Highs and Lows

The Pirate Cagers of 1970 were a very unpredictable ball club. We played some very good basketball and at other times bordered on the mediocre. We depended on a fast-breaking offense to provide the fans with an exciting and electrifying brand of basketball. Perhaps our greatest thrill was the heart-stopping 64-63 overtime win over Glacier. Our two losses to Tye and the defeat at Kentridge were no doubt our biggest disappointments. I feel that at no time did the Pirates give up in their efforts to be a winning team. Thus we bid a fond farewell to our senior team members Kurt Dobszinsky, Neil Hansen, John Kniss, Tom Larner, Lee Lane, Fritz Low, John McCoy, Steve Mine and Maury Moug.

Cellar Dwelling Tye Surprises Hapless Buc

Tye: The surprise of the season was how the lowly Totems, cellar dwellers in the league for the whole season, won the two games that Highline and Tye played. The Totems held off the Pirates in the final stages of the first contest to win 61-59 and then completely dominated the second game on their way to a 68-57 victory.

Kent-Meridian: During the 1969-70 season each team came up with a win as Highline and Kent split their games with the Pirates taking the first one 75-67 and the Royals bouncing back to squeak out a 72-68 win in the second.

Anacortes: Highline opened its season with a split of its non-league games by taking the first 75-53 at home. Traveling to Anacortes for the final, the Seahawks surprised the Pirates to come up with a 70-64 victory.

Mt. Rainier: The Rams handed the Bucs their first league loss in a 90-69 decision on January 6. In their next contest with Mt. Rainier, Highline played aggressive ball but still came out on the bottom 64-54.

Pirates Shut Out Two League Opponents

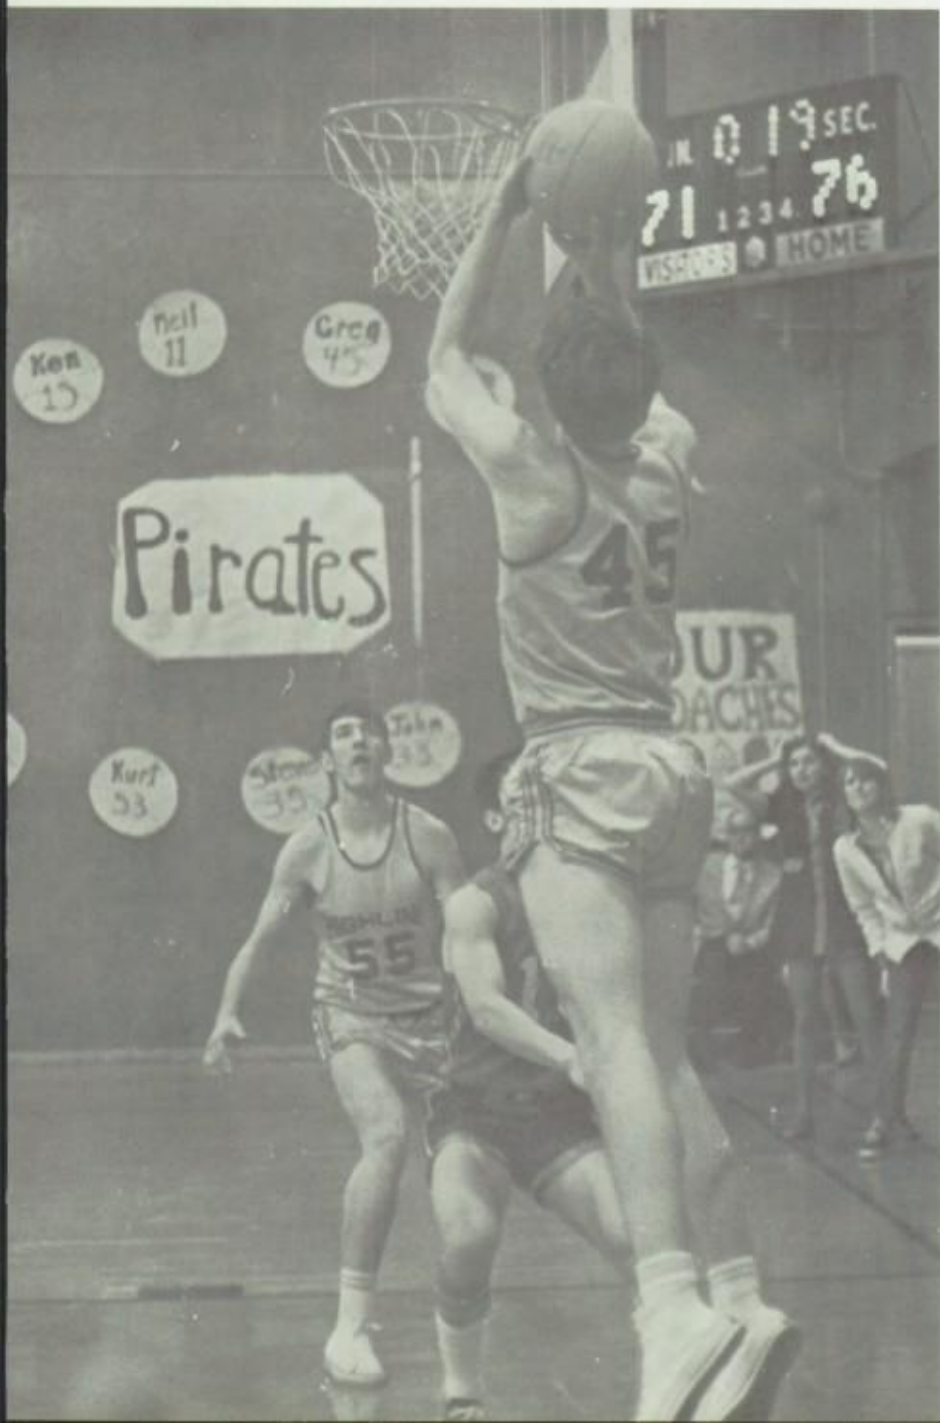

Glacier: A twenty-foot jumper by Lee Lane in overtime enabled Highline to carry off a 64-63 win in their first meeting. The Grizzlies had an easier time in the second round as they knocked off the Pirates by eleven points, 59-48.

Evergreen: Coming from an eleven point deficit, Highline rallied to whip the Wolverines 77-71. The Pirates also took the second contest 75-67 in February to complete its sweep of Evergreen.

Kentridge: A good fourth quarter effort on the part of the Pirates pushed Highline to a first round 66-60 triumph over Kentridge. The Chargers' excellent ball handling and Highlines poor shooting gave Kentridge the second game, 47-44.

Hazen: The Highlanders were one of two schools that Highline won both games from as the Bucs held off a late Hazen rally in the first to win, 68-61, and then came from behind in the second, 76-72.

Renton: Indian center Tom Leonard proved to be the focal point as Renton not only took both games from a tough Highline team, 62-54 and 65-50, but also captured the league championship.

Junior Varsity Excels During Cage Season

Under the guiding hand of former sophomore coach Mr. Ray Johnson, Highline's junior varsity again played the best ball scene at Highline. The team was lead mostly by the junior class with Dick Benster, Steve Erskine, Dean Ronhaar, Brian Low and Kirk Renschler providing the muscle behind the Pirates' winning season. Highline, playing a year of both balanced offense and defense, again ranked high in the final league standings.

Though their season provided fewer wins, the sophomore team came out with several promising performances. Coach Williams' team compiled a record of three wins against eleven losses. The squad had excellent performances by Otto Miller, Ken Selander and others turned in during the season.

First Year Girls Take Second in Big One

Out to prove that girls can be athletes, some of our more hardy coeds teamed together to form Highlines' Girls' Swim Team. Earl R. McKinney, also coach of the boys' team, crossed the sex barrier to bring the girls to a second place finish in the Federal Way Invitational High School Swimming Championships. This meet had to take the place of a state meet because, being a relatively new sport, an official State Championship meet has not been established for the girls. Despite a shaky beginning, the team, led by the mainstays of the Seattle Triton Aquatic Club, easily asserted their dual meet dominance to prove that girls can do it when it counts.

Grapplers Complete Season With 5-7 Mark

A strong team effort led to an upsurge in wrestling at Highline as the Pirates rose to a 5-7 dual meet record and a 3-5 standing in the league. This year the grapplers were under the guidance of new head coach John Roberts, who drew many fine performances from his well balanced squad. Doug Selivanoff, last year's most improved wrestler, remained unbeaten in dual meet competition with a 8-0-2 record. Jerry Hubbard and Chris Landstrom each had fine seasons 11-1 and 9-3 records, respectively. Those three competed in the District meet with Landstrom taking third place in the 130-pound weight division and going on to State where he took thirteenth. Under coach Neil Hutcheson, this year's junior varsity team also enjoyed more success.

Gymnastics Return Sparked By Seniors

After three years as head of the track department, Mr. Bob Sarver returned to coach a well represented Highline gymnastics team. The bulk of the team came from the underclassmen but the best achievement was earned by the seniors. Dave Hansen topped the team on the trampoline and in tumbling while Howard Rider excelled on the rings and parallel bars. Neil Hansen also did well in competition on the parallels and on the high bar. A large number of hours were spent in preparation for their meets as the team practiced both before and after school.

Weightmen Pace Squad To Season's Success

Despite the non-participation of a few of Highline's regular tracksters, the Pirates again remained in contention for the NPSL track crown. Lacking the speed of Ken Read and the versatility of Mark Johnsen, Highline faced their stiffest competition from Renton and Mount Rainier. It was a team headed by seniors with new head coach Charles Czubin that led the Bucs to their victories. The crew was well represented in the distance events with Bud Miller in the mile and Chris Spaun in the hurdles. Spaun also competed in the long jump, triple jump, and relays. James Schufreider finished the season as Highline's top man in the 440-yard dash. The teams' strongest area was in the shot put and discus with Joe Vick, Bob VanDuyne and Dan Bryant giving Highline one of the strongest teams in the league.

Returning Letterman Carry Baseball Squad

With the absence of Leonard Tazioli, Mr. John Roberts took over the reins of varsity baseball coach as Highline again enjoyed a successful season. A large factor in this year's team was the number of returning players from last year's fourth place squad. The Pirate mound staff was led by three-year letterman Richard Newton who accounted for most of Highline's wins. Other veterans coming back included Bob Rowland, one of the team's strongest hitters, and Bill Hogan, a proven good fielder at any position. Also figuring in on the run for the title are Steve Mine, Rob Willis, John Kniss, Kelly Harkness, Ken Read and Greg Hope.

Bliss Led Bucs Bomb NPSL Opponents

A well balanced team, sparkled with great personal performances, succeeded in remaining atop the NPSL tennis ladder. The defending champions, traditionally winners, were no different this year as they continued to be coached by Miss Irene Hallet. Top seeded in the league for Boy's singles for the second year in a row was junior Jeff Bliss. Also competing in singles was letterman Wally Franz. Two underclassmen that gave the Pirates the depth needed this season were Jon Hill and Barry Brendon who competed in doubles competition. The girls team was also loaded with talent. Joleen Pitman and Janet Bliss carried most of the work with Elaine McDowell and Laura Perry providing back-up strength.

Intramurals Build Strong Bodies Twelve Ways

The Intramural program was supervised by the Physical Education department to provide athletic activities for both boys and girls. Extra activities including volleyball, badminton, tennis, basketball and gymnastics were provided this year for interested students. The program was successful in giving students a chance to enjoy extra exercise and become better acquainted with each other. One of the highlights of the year was when the girls basketball team took first in the N.P.S.L. Activity Day. Another outstanding feature was the co-ed volleyball games. These games provided some very interesting battles. The Intramural program allows students to participate on a smaller scale than the Interscholastics Sports program. Because of this, it is possible for anyone with an athletic desire to participate and enjoy our sports program.

After school fun: Top, left to right, Marty Jacobsen demonstrates parallel bar expertise and both sexes enjoy a game of volleyball. Super Senior Class Succeeds in Seventy

The super class this year was the senior class. Under the direction of president Neil Hansen, they headed for the end of their high school daze with a new awareness. The seniors came through where other classes had failed. They restored the Senior Park to mint condition, they erected a Senior Lounge in the old cafeteria, they came out in the black at the end of the year, and their list of accomplishments goes on and on. The senior year represented a year of achievements, failures, and graduation.

Lowell Mason

Retiring Teachers Highline Salutes

The word "retirement" always seems so far away during high school days. But the seconds of time are relentless and this year three of our family members have heeded the call to hang up their keys. For each of them it does not necessarily mean an end but a beginning for something new. As they leave these corridors, office and classrooms, many are the young people who will have been affected and directed by their having spent these years faithfully at Highline High. To each of them a sincere tribute and best wishes for rewarding years ahead.

Mr. Glen Odman

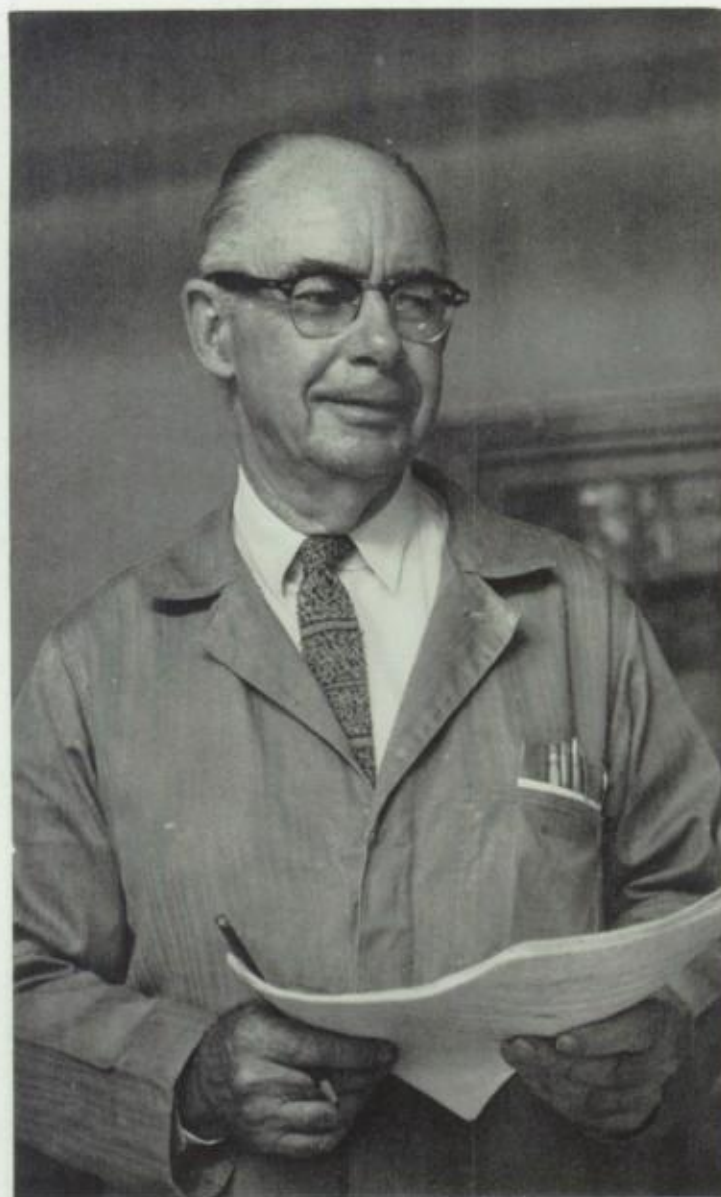

Lowell Mason will retire this year after teaching for 40 years. He has taught at five schools throughout his career and spent the last 25 years here at Highline. He started his career in education as a coach. For several years he coached football, basketball, and track at Lewiston High in Idaho. Mr. Mason coached for many years before he decided to become a teacher. History was the first course he taught and he did so for ten years before moving into the math field. As a teacher, he worked hard to give his students every possible chance and was always willing to give them some extra help when they needed it. Mr. Mason has always been liked by the students and faculty and he will be remembered for quite some time for his contribution here.

Jan
We sure had a lot of fun this year in algebra. And I sure hope you have a fun summer.
Bill S.
P.S. be careful

Probably the most irreplaceable person in any school is the office secretary. Mrs. Lilly Anderson retires after two decades of service to Highline District, eighteen and a half years in Highline's front office. She entered Highline at the beginning of the second semester in 1954, prior to this she worked for one and a half years at Boulevard Park. When she retires, she hopes to get some work done around the house and will do plenty of hunting and fishing with her husband. The main office will not be the same without Mrs. Anderson's theme song, "Use the other door, please!"

Mr. Warren Herbage has devoted 41 years of his life to teaching and now he has decided to retire. Mr. Herbage first started teaching in 1929 but it was not until 1941 that he came to Highline. Here at Highline he taught not only chemistry but also physics, photography and general science. He said he enjoyed teaching at Highline and liked their attitude toward trying special programs which give the teacher as well as the student a greater range of specific subjects. Photography is his main hobby, and he concentrates on color slides of scenic views. After retiring he intends to do some extensive travel. He has devoted a large portion of his life to teaching, but he thinks it was a greatly rewarding experience.

Dedication

Leonard Tazioli June 1920 - March 1970

This annual is respectfully dedicated to Mr. Leonard Tazioli, one of Highline's best friends. Mr. Tazioli taught at Highline for 18 years before he was forced to retire because of a fatal illness. Mr. Glen Odman said this about him, "To know Leonard Tazioli was to know a man of patience, kindness and humor. I never heard him complain. Always he took each task in stride. Never did I hear a complaint against him; neither did I hear him speak disparagingly of a student or teacher. The world needs many men of his caliber."

Jan,

You're one of the nicest and sweetest person I have known.
Take my real good advice and always stay that way. Don't ever change. The year is almost over but I hope our friendship will always last.

With lots of love,
Mithu (George)
